

Camille Last Night.

Notwithstanding the fact that over 700 people attended the representation of Camille at the Opera House on the opening night, a fair audience greeted Miss Granger upon her appearance in the same character last night, and the appreciation of her acting was as enthusiastic as upon the first evening. From the time the curtain rose upon the first act until it fell upon the death bed scene in the last act, every motion of Miss Granger was watched with interest, and applause greeted every hit in the thrilling and emotional parts. Near the close of the third act one of the ushers stepped to the front of the stage and presented Miss Granger with a handsome bouquet, the receipt of which she acknowledged in a pleasing manner.

The acting of Mr. Ogden Stevens as Armand Duval was rather an improvement on that of the first night while others in the cast did not appear as well as they might have done.

To-night the company will appear in one of Boucicault's most amusing productions "Forbidden Fruit." Miss Maude Granger will personate the character of Zulu originally played by her in all of the leading eastern cities with remarkable success. Mr. Langrishe will upon this occasion appear in the famous comedy role of Sergeant Huster. None should fail to see this play, as it promises to be one of the most amusing attractions of Miss Granger's engagement. New scenes will be produced this evening for the first time upon the new stage.
